THE MILESTONE
OF 1932

To JUDGE ALDEN PERLEY WHITE
we dedicate the MILESTONE of 1932.

Although few of the students of Governor Dummer Academy are closely associated with Judge White, we who do know him appreciate the immeasurable work which he has done for the School as dean of the Board of Trustees and as President of that body for the past few years. His energy, loyalty, and enthusiasm have done much to advance the School to its present position.

EDITOR'S FOREWORD

Tradition dictates that the function of a school yearbook shall be to present an accurate record of the achievements of the school during the current year. As a parallel to the spirit of pride and optimism found in the student body, this 1932 MILESTONE has endeavored to transcend former yearbooks by attempting to inaugurate a new tradition, the taking of the various captains' pictures in front of the old milestone. How well we have succeeded in our chosen task only the years will tell.

Hummer

495 Washington St.,
Dedham, Mass.,
March 10, 1932.

Mr. Edward W. Eames, Headmaster,
Governor Dummer Academy,
South Byfield, Mass.

Dear Mr. Eames:

I am handing you herewith a copy of the Coat of Arms of Honorable William Dummer.

The Dummer Coat of Arms is described in Burke's "General Armory" as follows: Az. three fleur-de-lis or, on a chief of the second, a demi lion ramp issuant sa. Crest. A demi lion ramp. az. holding a fleur-de-lis or. In my search I consulted Mr. Charles K. Bolton, Chief Librarian of the Boston Atheneum, who gave the same description in his book on "American Armory." He had a photograph of the Dummer Coat of Arms as engraved on a flagon given by Honorable William Dummer to the Hollis Street Church in 1753. This flagon is described in detail in "Old Silver of American Churches." The Hollis Street Church has long been out of existence, and at Mr. Bolton's suggestion, I visited the Boston Art Museum where I found the flagon on loan and now owned by the First Church in Boston (1630).

It was a rare privilege to take this beautiful piece in my hands and examine in detail the fine workmanship of the Boston silversmith, William Cowell, Jr. At the same time I was impressed with the thought of its use on the Communion Table of one of the early Boston churches. The inscription above the Coat of Arms reads: "Presented to the Church of Christ in Hollis Street under the Pastoral care of the Rev. Mather Byles, D.D."—and below the Coat of Arms: "By the Honorable William Dummer Esq. Late Lieut. Governor and Commander in Chief of the Massachusetts." On the bottom is engraved: "This Humbly Dedicated by William Dummer to the Church of Christ in Hollis Street for the Communion Table—1753." I have had a copy of this Coat of Arms made, with its mantling, because of its historical connection and the fine execution of every detail.

It has been a great pleasure for me to make the search for the Dummer Coat of Arms, and I am very happy to present a copy to Governor Dummer Academy.

Sincerely yours,

Calvin Eldred

The Father of Governor William Dummer

The friends of the Governor Dummer Academy are naturally interested in the story of its founder, but to appreciate what he stood for in Massachusetts in the first half of the 18th century it is necessary to know something of his parentage and background. He was descended from an old English family of good standing and some property. His grandfather, Richard, emigrated to America and settled on a farm at Newbury. Richard's son Jeremiah,—or Jeremy as he was commonly called—was born there September 14, 1645. Shortly before Jeremy was fourteen he was sent to Boston to be apprenticed to John Hull the goldsmith, or silversmith, as we should say today.

Hull was a noted character of the time, a leader in civic affairs, best remembered today as Master of the Mint at which the "pine-tree shillings" were struck. He lived in a large house, with a garden, on the southwest corner of what are now known as Washington Street and Temple Place. Doubtless his silver shop and mint were adjacent though under a separate roof. He and his partner, Edward Saunderson, were among the earliest of the long and noted line of silversmiths in Boston in the 17th and 18th centuries—a succession which included Paul Revere—who produced the beautiful pieces of silver so highly valued today.

Hull made an entry in his diary for 1659 as follows: "1st of 5th I Received into my house Jeremie Dummer and Samuel Paddy, to serve me as apprentices eight years. The Lord make me faithful in discharge of this new trust committed to me, and let the blessing be to me and them"! Hull's prayer was answered so far as Jeremy was concerned, but Paddy was a scapegrace, who presently wandered off to London and the West Indies, and apparently came to no good end. Twenty-two years later, in 1681, Hull wrote to Paddy, "Had you abode here and followed your calling you might have been worth many hundred pounds of clear estate and you might have enjoyed many more helpes for your sole. Mr. Dummer lives in good fashion hath a wife and three children and a good Estate is a member of the church and like to be very useful in his Generation."

A boy of that period in Boston, seeking to learn a craftsman's trade could, in truth, have had no better chance than came to Jeremy, and he did make good use of it. When his apprenticeship was served, he set up for himself in business. He married Anna Atwater in 1672; held a series of minor public offices, which show the esteem in which his fellow citizens held him; was a deacon in the First Church, for which he made two beautiful communion cups; and died in Boston in his seventy-third year, on May 15, 1718, after an honorable and prosperous career. His portrait shows a man of fine presence and dignity, and his silver, of which several dozen pieces are known to be extant, exhibits a high degree of craftsmanship and artistic skill. Indeed the silver produced by the Boston silversmiths—more than thirty in number—of the late 17th and early 18th centuries, is as fine in workmanship as that produced in any town of the British empire outside of London.

Jeremiah Dummer had several children. William, who became governor and who, dying childless, left his house and lands to found the Academy, was born in 1677. He was not a popular official, but was universally respected for his ability, his integrity, and his constant endeavor to deal fairly with the conflicting political elements in the province and to hold an even balance between the rights of the crown and the claims of the colony. William's younger brother, Jeremiah, Jr., (also called Jeremy) was a much more brilliant figure. He was born in 1681, graduated from Harvard in 1699, and took the degree of doctor of philosophy at Utrecht in Holland. He went to England, took up law, and served for many years as agent for the colony in London. There his intellectual brilliance brought him a great reputation as a wit. Unfortunately he allied himself politically with Viscount Bolingbroke, and his political prospects came to an abrupt end with the accession of George I to the throne. He outshone his elder brother in ability, but was much his inferior in character. He died in 1739, never having fulfilled the extraordinary promise of his youth. Portraits of the two brothers, William and Jeremy, Jr., were painted by Sir Godfrey Kneller while the two young men were together in London, before William's return to Massachusetts to become Lieutenant-Governor in 1716.

Their father, Jeremiah, Sr., besides being a first rate silversmith, is now known to have also painted portraits. It is rather curious that none of his contemporaries mention this side of his career, but he and they presumably regarded painting as a pastime, and not as a serious or remunerative employment like his work as silversmith or in civic affairs. He is not known to have ever visited England, and probably he taught himself how to paint. He was the earliest of our native-born Massachusetts artists. Like all the other minor artists of the English tradition at that period he tried to imitate the fashionable Kneller's style, with which he was doubtless familiar from engravings. The portraits which he painted of himself and his wife, and of his brother-and-sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Coney, are very creditable pictures. Fortunately he painted inscriptions on the back of these portraits in lettering much like his handwriting, by which we are able to identify them as his work. In addition to these four pictures a number of others — perhaps six or eight — have been more or less certainly identified as by him, from their resemblance to his known work.

At this point one naturally asks whether he might not have been the artist who painted the pictures of Governor William Dummer and his wife Katherine, one of the daughters of Governor Joseph Dudley, now owned by the Academy and hanging in the headmaster's house. Unfortunately we have as yet no definite evidence to prove that he did so. This second portrait of William Dummer shows him considerably older than does the portrait painted by Kneller in London, yet not too old to have been painted after William's return from London before his father's death. One would like to think that the father painted the son, and there is nothing impossible in the supposition, except that the picture is a good deal more ambitious, — or pretentious, — than anything else we know old Jeremiah Dummer to have done.

But if he did paint his son's picture did he also paint his daughter-in-law, Katherine Dummer? That picture shows much less skill, and appears to be the work of another hand. Yet it is very much like those of her two sisters, and of her sister-in-law Mrs. Paul Dudley, and, in view of the family connection with Governor Joseph Dudley, one can easily imagine that Jeremiah Dummer, in his old age, might have been engaged to paint portraits of several of the family, especially as no other artist capable of doing as good work is known to have been in Boston at that time.

It is a pleasing fancy upon which to exercise the imagination, but there, for the present, we must leave the question, until further research gives us more definite information. But we do know enough about William Dummer's father to hold him in high respect as a man, as a craftsman in silver, and as the first of our native-born Massachusetts painters.

The Football Season

The best record of the last few years was made by the football team of 1931; especially is this apparent when the calibre of the opposition for the past season is considered. The team was captained by Carter, a veteran of last year's good team, who besides being an able end, combined qualities which make a successful leader. Carter was flanked at the other end position by Chase, an alert player. Mack and Reiche filled the tackle berths. Mack, an experienced player, was probably the most powerful player in the line, and Reiche was his equal in aggressiveness. Segler and Deuel filled the guard positions well, and Segler was probably the fiercest tackler on the team. Henneberry was a capable center. The backfield attack was built around Walker at quarterback, whose broken field running and passing was a feature of every game. Caddoo at fullback was a consistent line plunger and a brilliant defense man. Disbro, an effective blocker, and Donovan, a shifty and speedy ball carrier, completed a versatile backfield, the perfect balance of which will be hard to duplicate.

The Governors opened their season against the Brooks School with a win, 19-0. On the following Saturday, October 10th, the team went to Brunswick, Maine, and defeated the heavier Bowdoin Junior Varsity by the decisive score of 19-0. Mack and Chase played well in the line, and Walker executed three beautiful broken field runs for long gains.

The Governors defeated Moses Brown at Providence in the next game, 13-7. Segler and Walker were the outstanding players in this contest.

Captain Carter and Reiche played exceptional games on the next Saturday when the Governors won from Thayer Academy by the close score of 14-6. On October 30th the Leverett House of Harvard sent their team to South Byfield. The Harvard team scored first on a safety, but in a second half rally were defeated by 14-2. On the next Saturday, the Andover reserves were defeated, 13-0.

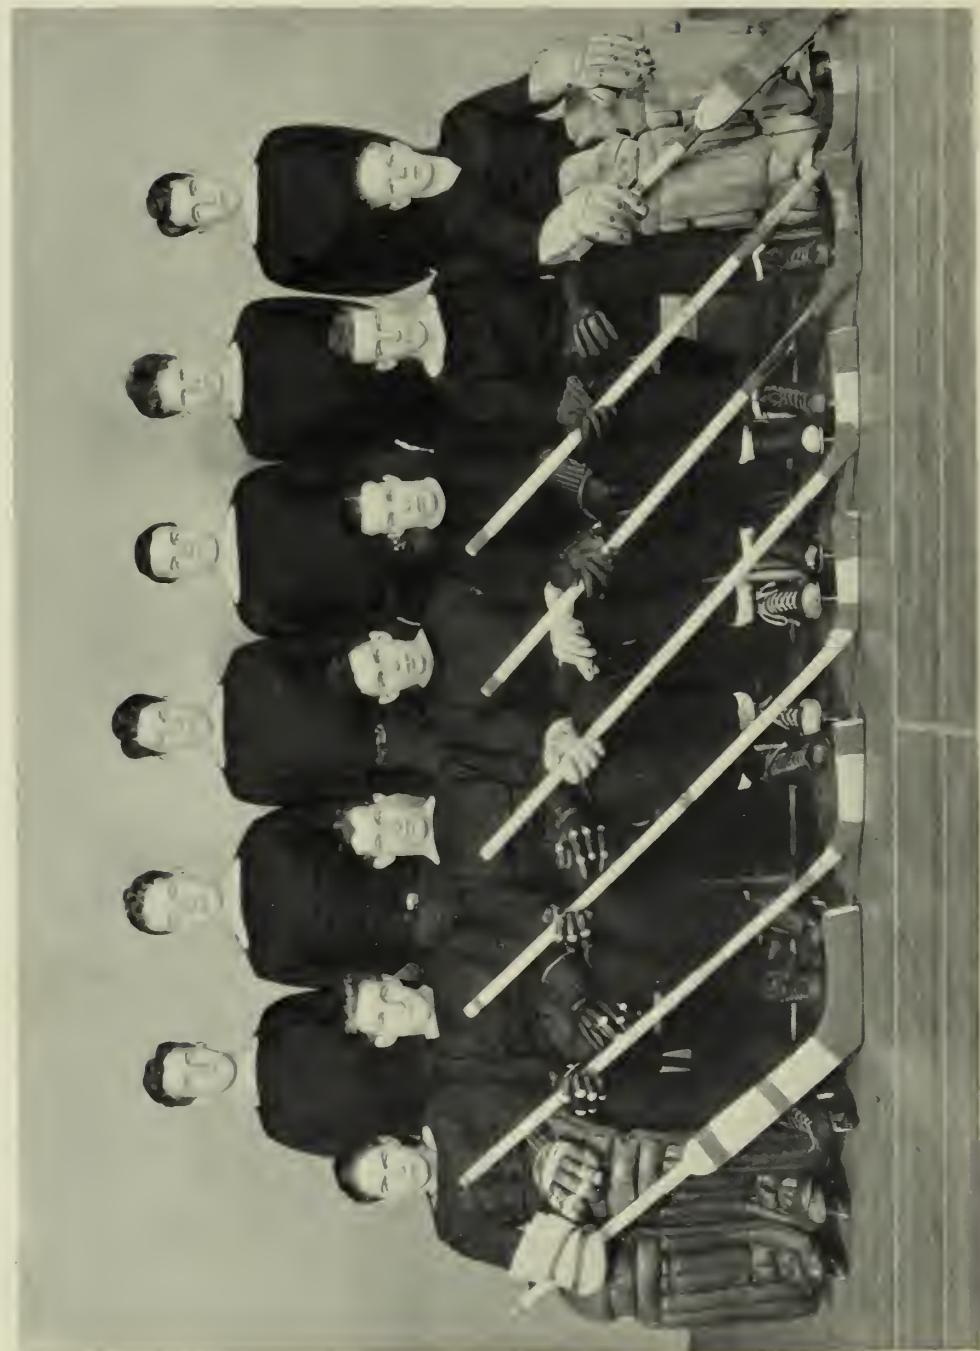

The game with Lawrence Academy of Groton was the hardest fought contest of the season. Lawrence was very strong, and the game developed into a battle between the two lines with a result that there were many forced punts. Lawrence scored a touchdown in the last minute of play on a desperate forward pass which two of the Governors' secondary defense juggled and which a Lawrence end managed to pick out of the air. The try for point was blocked, and the game ended, 6-0.

In the last game Governor Dummer played Deerfield and won a 12-0 victory. Walker scored two touchdowns, aided by the extraordinarily clever blocking of Chase and Deuel.

With three regulars, Captain-elect Segler, Reiche, and Disbro returning; and with Sumner, Wood, James and Justin Smith, Petri and Williamson, capable substitutes from this season also eligible, it seems that the Governors have a good prospect of a successful season next year.

The Hockey Season

During the 1932 season, Governor Dummer Academy was represented by a hockey team with perhaps the greatest potential strength in the history of the school. Due to the lack of ice throughout the season, Mr. Fames, as coach, had a very hard time whipping the fine material into a team.

The first game of the season had been scheduled with Milton, but was postponed because of the lack of ice. On the following Saturday, January 23rd, the team met its first opponent, Deerfield Academy, in the Springfield Arena. The Governors secured six goals against Deerfield's four through the fine playing of Chase, Walker, and Eldred. On January 30th, the Governors defeated Tabor 2-1, in the Boston Arena. Due to the soft, rough ice and lack of practice, both teams showed principally individual play. Henneberry and Rogers scored.

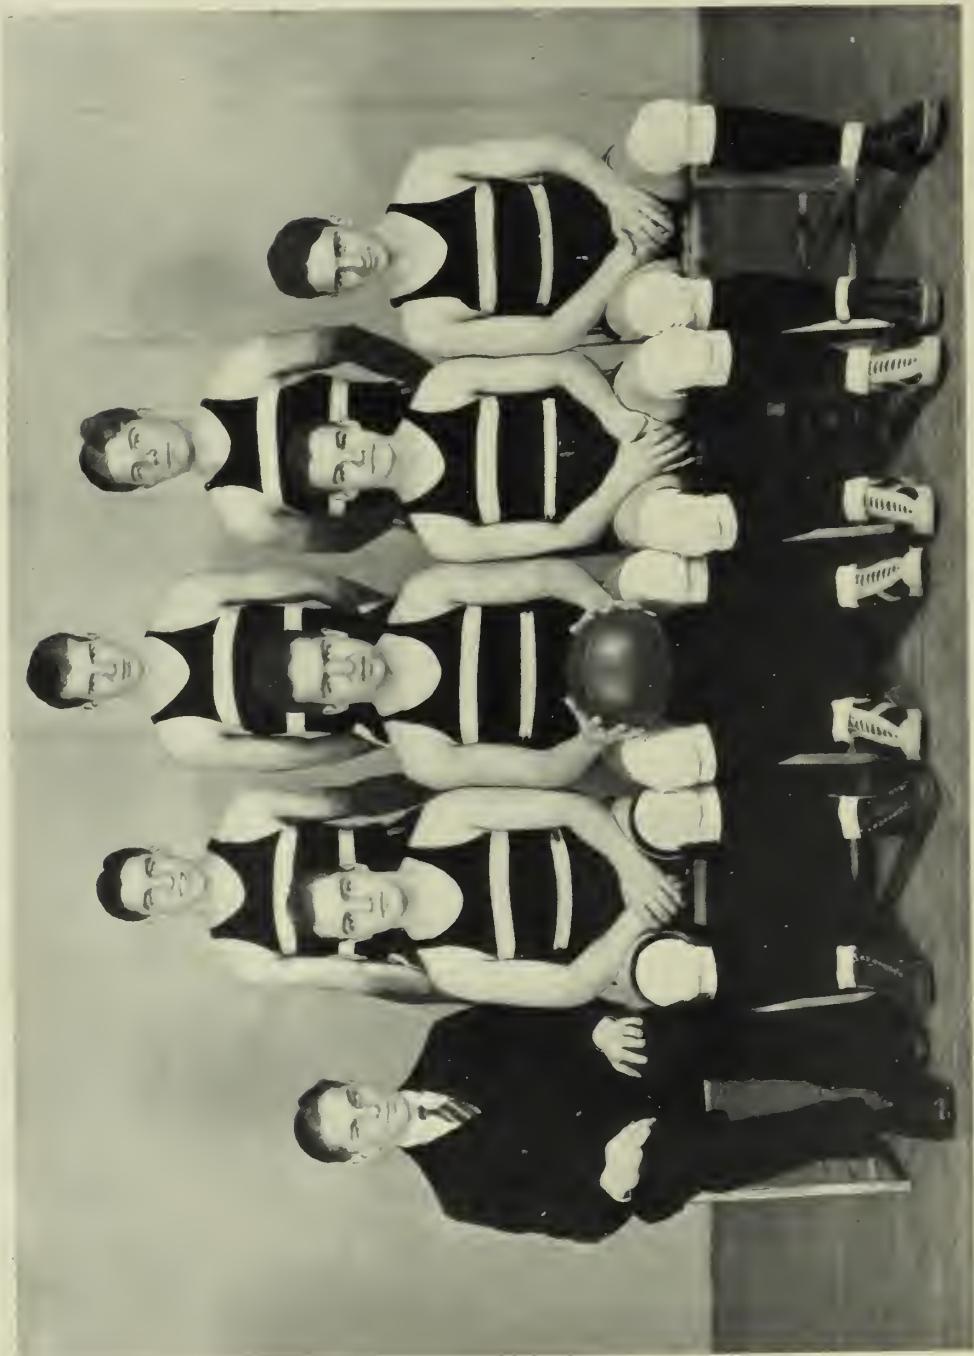

The Governors met their first defeat of the season at the hands of Phillips Andover. Despite a splendid goal shot by Walker and fine team-play, Andover won, 2-1. The next week, the team played its first home game, defeating Brooks, 3-0. Walker and Rogers starred, scoring the goals. Hosmer, replacing Smith as goalie, played a brilliant game.

The team was defeated on February 16th at Milton by a 3-1 score. Walker scored the goal on a solo dash down the ice, but the team lost through the lack of a strong second line, being worn down by the strong, fresh Milton lines. The following day, although the team appeared to better advantage than its opponents, it was defeated by Exeter, 2-1. On the 19th, the team was split into two sections, one part going to the Brooks School where it played a 3-3 tie; and the other going down to a defeat at the hands of the Rivers School, 3-0.

Because of the bad ice, the individual ability of the players was in advance of the teamwork. Captain Chase, an experienced right-wing man of last year, played remarkably well as leader of the team, his passing and receiving being exact and his game very steady. Eldred, last year's left-wing played an aggressive, fast game. Rogers stood out because of his fine skating and the clever handling of his stick. Walker, the fastest and strongest skater on the team, showed his usual all-round skill, scoring over half the season's goals. McIntire, the captain-elect for next year, was probably the steadiest player on the team. Smith and Hosmer did remarkably well as goal tenders, both making many fine stops at critical moments. Sumner, a substitute guard, was a splendid man both offensively and defensively. Wolff was one of the best substitutes, always playing a steady game at center. Barndollar was also of great use as a forward substitute. Henneberry, another relief forward, was a quick and very clever offensive player. Gove, although a comparatively slow skater, could check very effectively and was frequently sent in as a defense man.

The Basketball Season

This year's basketball team had an extremely erratic season. The first three games were won, and out of the next five, four were lost. The team completed the season however, in excellent shape with five successive victories, making a season's record of nine won and four lost.

Giovannangeli at left forward was the high scorer for the first eight games, but an unfortunate accident deprived the team of his services after this. His place was capably filled for the remainder of the season by Disbro, whose improvement reached a high point in the last game. After numerous experiments Captain Mack was finally assigned to the right forward assignment, with Lyne as an able substitute. Cushman held down his position at center again this year and displayed notable improvement as the season advanced. When Caddoo was jumping center, he played very aggressively. Sarnecki in a guard position developed quickly, and Deuel filled the other guard post even better than he did last year. Although Henneberry did not come out until late in the year, he was of great assistance at the end.

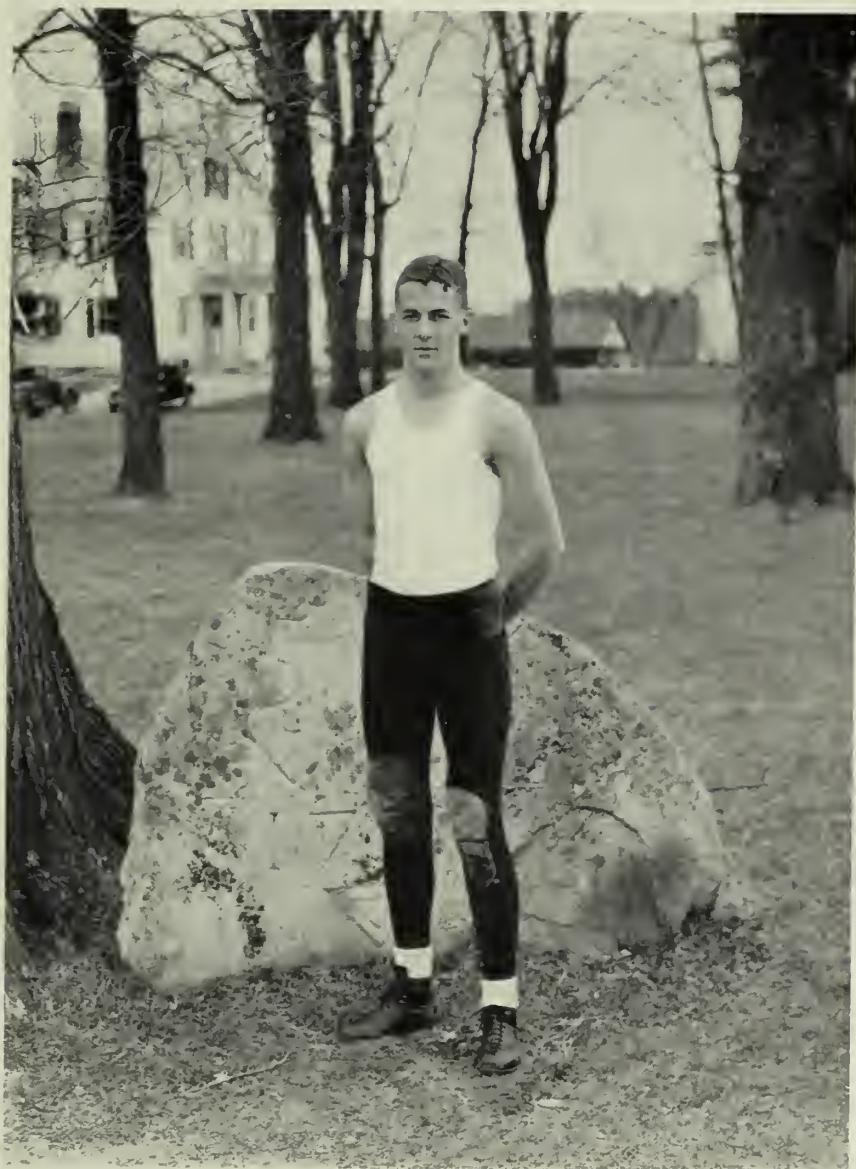

The season opened with a narrow victory over Melrose High School, 20-16. The game with Lynn General Electric School was less difficult, and the Governors won, 39-27. Lawrence Academy was defeated after this by the score of 41-33. Giovannangeli, playing his first season at forward, found himself in this contest and was the outstanding player on the floor.

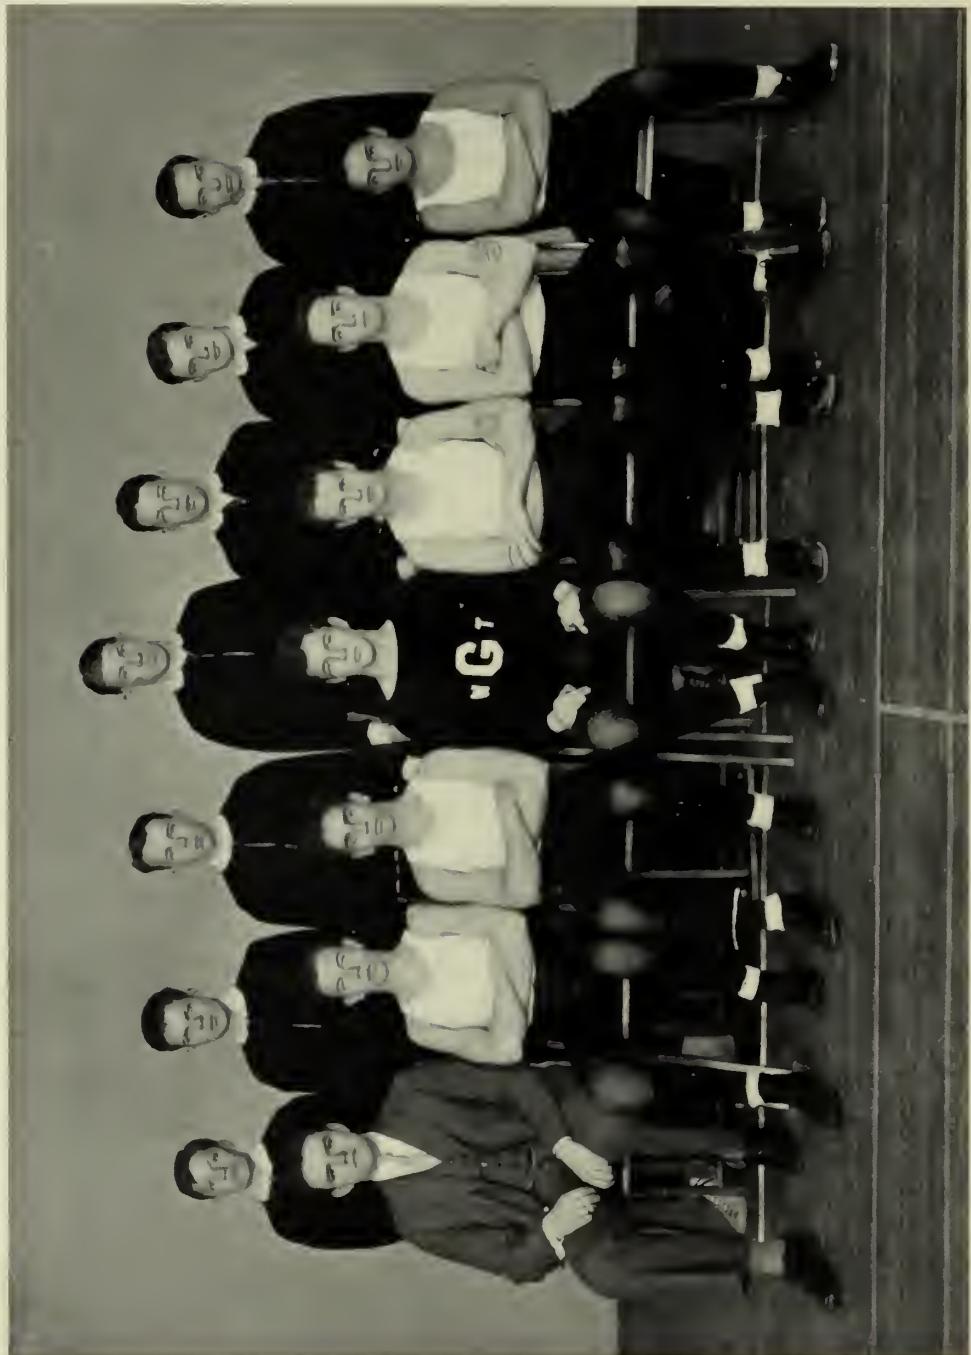

The Governors suffered their first defeat in the game with a strong Andover five on January 30th. The final score was 26-23. In the return game with Lawrence Academy, the team was defeated, 37-27, but in the following game defeated Rindge Technical High School, 42-29. The next game was lost to an undefeated Bridgton Academy team, 32-24, the Governors being unable to overcome the visitors' lead of sixteen points gained in the first quarter. Milton was the last team to defeat us, and this was in an exceptionally close contest. Caddoo distinguished himself in this game.

The game with Massachusetts Nautical School on February 24th started the Governors on a winning streak. Sarnecki was the outstanding player in this victory. The following two games proved rather easy, for both Wassoakeag School and Amesbury High School were defeated by large scores. The M. I. T. Freshmen were completely outplayed and defeated by 43-21. In the final game, that with the Reading Alumni, the team scored almost at will, Captain Mack alone scoring thirty-four points.

At the opening of the season Mr. Reagan found that practically every candidate had previously played at a guard position, and his success in developing forwards from some of these players accounts to a great extent for the very good record of the season. Also to him must go a great deal of the credit for the extraordinary teamwork which the team showed in its final engagements.

The Wrestling Season

Although this is only the second year of wrestling at Governor Dummer, the squad showed marked improvement over last year and also over its own matches of the early part of this season. Considering the newness of the sport and the fact that Mr. Brodhead had but two lettermen of last year, Terry Staples and Reginald Morrill, with which to develop a team the progress of the wrestlers appears in a highly satisfactory light.

The team started its schedule against Newburyport Y.M.C.A. on January 16th. Fernandez was the only man to win a bout, for the nervousness natural to a first meet and the fact that many of the opponents were stronger and more experienced were handicaps which gameness and determination could not overcome.

Two weeks later the Governors wrestled at Andover against the Phillips Academy Reserves. In this match the team lost all its bouts, but Staples had a decided advantage for most of his match, losing in the last few minutes only.

On February 6th the wrestlers met Browne and Nichols at Cambridge in the first of a series of two matches. Although the team lost the match, there was a noticeable improvement in all of the bouts. Morrill and Beola were out with severe colds, and this was somewhat of a handicap.

To celebrate Mr. Brodhead's birthday, February 13th, the team won its first victory. The opponents were the Harvard Freshman Seconds. It was a spectacular match in that the opponents built up a thirteen-point lead in the opening three bouts by defeating Fernandez, North, and Clapp. Martin, in the 135 lb. class, started the scoring for the Governors by defeating his man by a fall in 2:52. Staples and Comfort won closely contested bouts by time decisions. With the score two points against the team, McGarry, wrestling last and in the 175 lb. class defeated his opponent by a fall to win the match, 16-13.

Browne and Nichols came to South Byfield for a return match. The Governors lost to them again, but this time a great improvement was evidenced by the fact that two of the matches were won, whereas in the first meet with them, Browne and Nichols had made a clean sweep. Harry Churchill, a new member of the squad, was the winner of one of these.

The return match with the Harvard Freshman Seconds was lost, $22\frac{1}{2}$ - $11\frac{1}{2}$. Clapp and Fernandez started the match well by winning the opening two bouts on falls. Staples wrestled to a draw, but the rest of squad, pitted against stronger opposition than in the first match with this opponent, lost the remainder of the matches.

The team lost its last match of the year to the Phillips Academy Reserves at Andover. It was a very close contest, and it was in this meet especially that the individual improvement of the wrestlers was shown. Although Andover had won the first match by taking every bout, in this return engagement the score was 24-19, comparatively close.

The Relay Season

The relay team was very successful this season in the few meets in which it participated. There were two veterans returning from last year's squad, which gave the team a good foundation: they were Carter and Segler, two strong competitors. Reiche, a high school star in both track and field events, loomed up from the candidates and proved to be a successful and useful man. Donovan, record holder for the 440 in Maine, ran in the anchor position, and Maxcy, also of Maine, was the last member of the team. Johnson, although not making the team, gave such competitive and such persistent effort in his daily practice that his contribution to its success was of material worth.

The squad was handicapped by the fact that it had neither board nor cinder track on which to train; the turnpike and the Byfield country roads were its only means of practice. Owing to this the members deserve an extra amount of credit for their faithfulness in reporting and carrying out training instructions every day regardless of slush, snow, rain, or zero weather.

Not downheartened by the odds against them in facing some of the best relay teams in New England in their opening competition, the runners went to

B.A.A. Meet Boston on February 13th for the Boston Athletic Association Meet. The Governors, generally considered the under-dogs, entered the race with traditional determination, if not with confidence. Running against them were teams from the following schools: Tabor, Roxbury Latin, Browne and Nichols, and Newton Country Day. Segler led off with Maxcy, Reiche, and Donovan following in the order named. The team was in second place during the first part of the race, but it eventually pulled itself so far ahead of this position that at the finish it had a lead of thirty yards on the nearest of the four other teams.

On March 12th the team went to Brunswick to compete in the Bowdoin Interscholastic Relay Games. There were two exceptionally fast schools entered in Bowdoin Interscholastics the Governors' heat: St. John's and Newark Preparatory Schools.

Bowdoin Interscholastics Last season Newark won the national relay championship. Maxcy led off in this race and passed the baton to Carter with a five-yard lead on the other two teams. Carter ran one of his best races and completed his distance retaining the advantage. Reiche, running in third position, kept the lead, but a bad pass to Donovan put St. John's fifteen yards in front. Donovan ran a spectacular race in the anchor position but was seven yards behind the St. John's runner at the finish. Newark was last. Summing up the times of the various schools, the judges found that the Governors had placed fourth, and but for the bad pass would probably have set a new Bowdoin cage record.

The Bowdoin Meet ended the relay season. The satisfactory record which the team made was to a great extent due to Mr. Sager's very excellent direction, and with Segler and Reiche returning next year it looks now as though he will have the basic material from which to mold another fast team for the Governors.

The Fencing Season

At the beginning of the winter term, a new sport, fencing, was inaugurated under the guidance of Mr. Allen, one of this year's new masters, who was a former member of the Harvard Fencing Team and, in the Intercollegiate Matches of 1930, finished third. Just prior to the beginning of the season, Mr. Allen arranged an exhibition for the students in which several of the outstanding fencers in New England participated. Among them were Rene Peroy, fencing coach at Harvard; Edward and Everett Lane, national champions in 1929 and now members of the Boston Athletic Club; Mr. James Parker, also of the B.A.A.; Captain Robert Lawson, Gilbert Kerlin, Thomas Moran, and John Hurd, all of the Harvard fencing team. During an intermission Mr. Everett Lane gave a brief account of fencing, explaining the types of instruments used and something concerning the rules. The result of this exhibition was a great increase in the interest in fencing; two days later the squad was the second largest in the Academy.

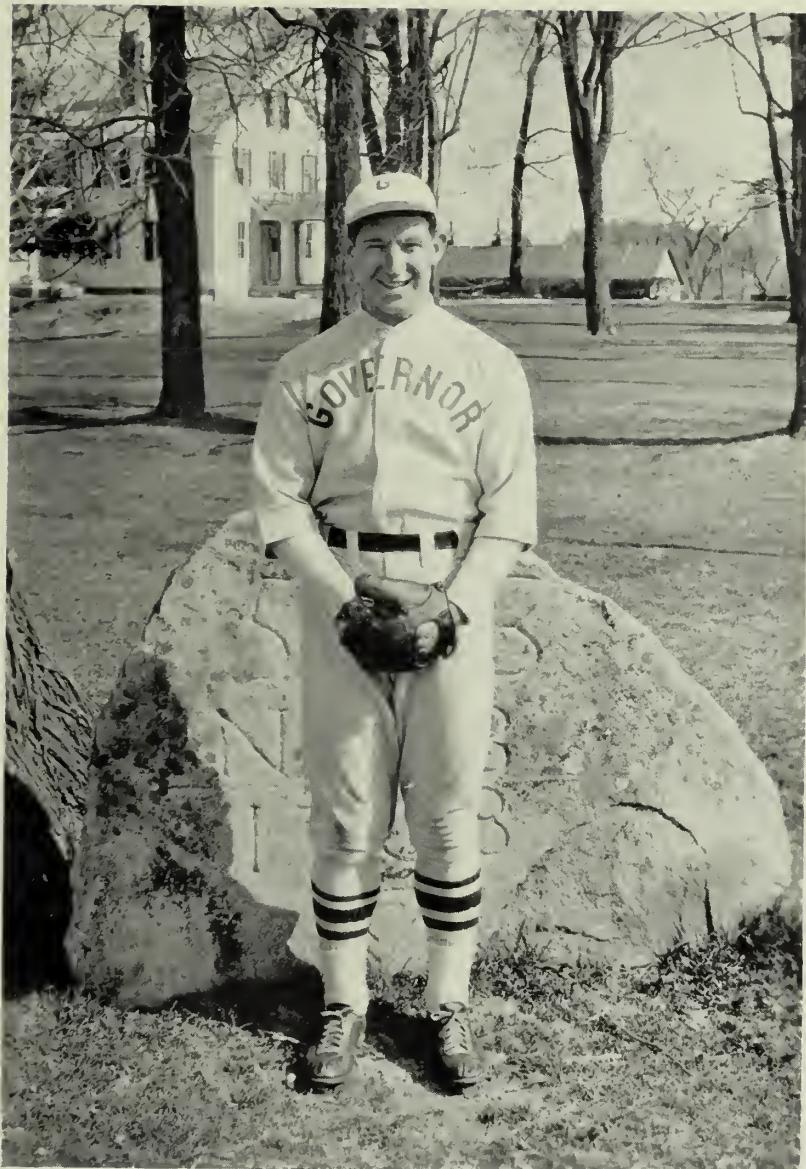

Despite the fact that it is said to take three years to make a fencer, the boys developed rapidly and, with daily practice, made very satisfactory progress. Although they were almost all mere beginners, toward the end of the term they showed such an advance that Mr. Allen was confident enough to take a team of five to compete in an informal contest with the more experienced Andover team. The team was defeated, but it made a creditable showing, taking five of the fourteen bouts, the final score being 9-5 in Andover's favor.

There was such an interest in the sport that Mr. Allen took a group of the best fencers into Boston to witness the finals in the Olympic Fencing Competition at the Boston Arena. The high-light of the evening, in the minds of most of the boys, was the exhibition saber bout in which the contestants pursued each other all over the floor, seeking to cut the plume from the top of their opponent's helmet.

At the end of the season, a tournament was arranged to decide who were the best fencers. At first a ladder tournament was organized, with the men arranged according to their ability as Mr. Allen rated them. Any contestant was able to challenge any two entries above him, and in this manner many were able to rise higher. After four days of this, four strips were drawn up, each having four men. These fought a round robin with the others in their strip, and, in the end, the four strip-winners fought a final series of bouts. The four strip winners were Dix Robbins, Hugo Poisson, Harmon Hall, and John Healy. Of these, Hall and Poisson received first and second places respectively in the finals.

On Monday evening, March 14th, during the Athletic rally, the awards were distributed by Mr. Allen. These prizes, which were supplied through the kindness of the American Fencers League, were a pair of foils for the winner, and a single foil for the runner-up.

The Baseball Season

The 1932 baseball team is one of the best all around teams that Governor Dummer Academy has ever had. However, at first the prospects of a successful season seemed very slim, because only three lettermen, Henneberry, Cushman, and Walker, returned from the year before. Howard Walker was elected to the captaincy after the game with Moses Brown, and he deserves a great deal of credit for his excellent playing and fine leadership. Beola, Wolff, and Gove have all displayed vast improvement over their last year's performances. The fielding of the team is good, and the batting is extremely strong. The infield is composed of Rogers as catcher, Cushman at first, either Sumner or Giovannangeli at second, Walker at short, and Mack at third. The outfield positions have never been definitely decided because of the ability of six candidates, Wolff, Caddoo, Beola, Gove, Rutherford, and Halas. In spite of the small pitching staff Henneberry and Sarnecki have consistently turned in performances of the highest calibre.

The opening game with Groton had to be cancelled because of rain. Therefore the season opened April 16th with an 8-2 victory over Melrose High School. The team showed its lack of practice, but under the circumstances played very well. On the following Saturday the Governors defeated Moses Brown, 11-1. Walker's hitting was particularly noteworthy, as he secured a single, a double, a triple, and a home run. The next game, that with Exeter, had to be called off because of extremely cold weather, but on the following Saturday Rindge Tech was nosed out in a well-played game by the score of 2-0.

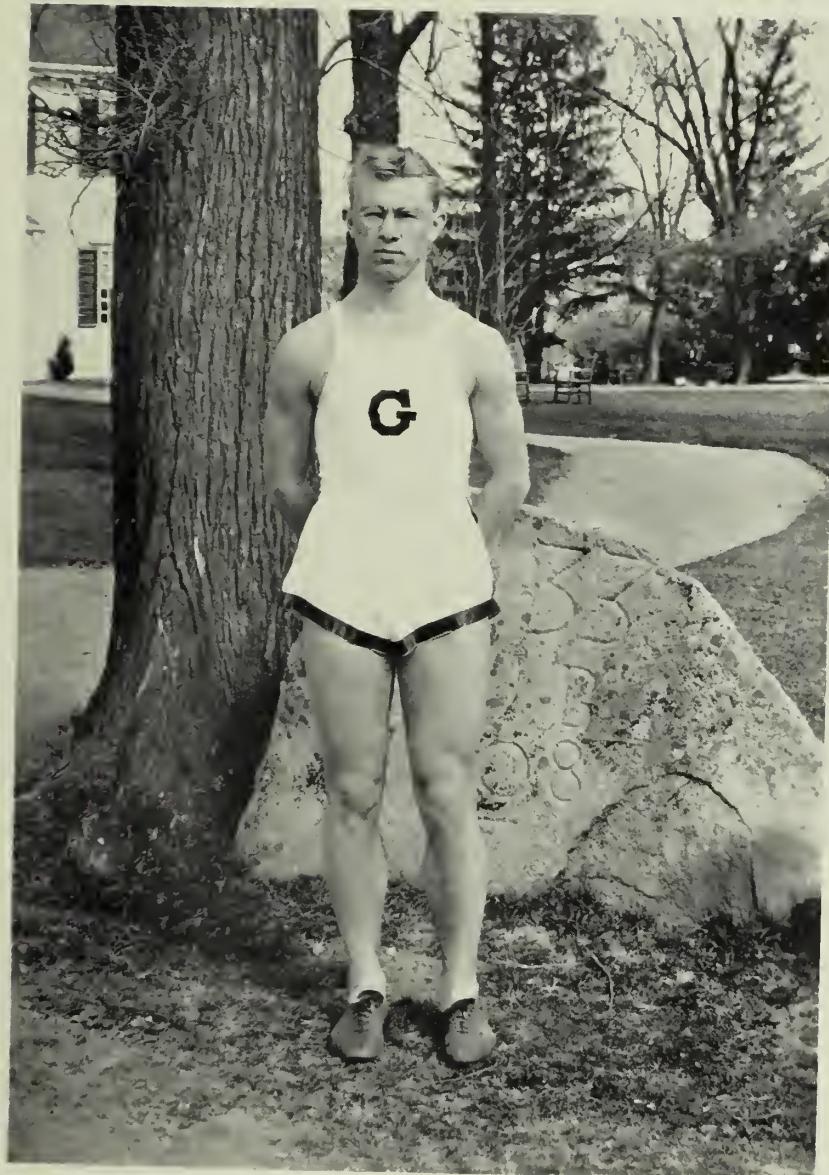

The first defeat was received at the hands of Lawrence Academy on May 4th. The game was loosely played, and the final score was 7-1. The next game, a victory over Belmont Hill, proved that the Governors were not wholly dependent upon the first nine. Sarnecki exhibited some excellent pitching, striking out twelve men, and Caddoo starred with three hits out of four times at bat. Rivers School offered very little opposition, and as a result the game finally finished in our favor, 20-10. The Governors hit well, securing 18 hits, but fielded poorly.

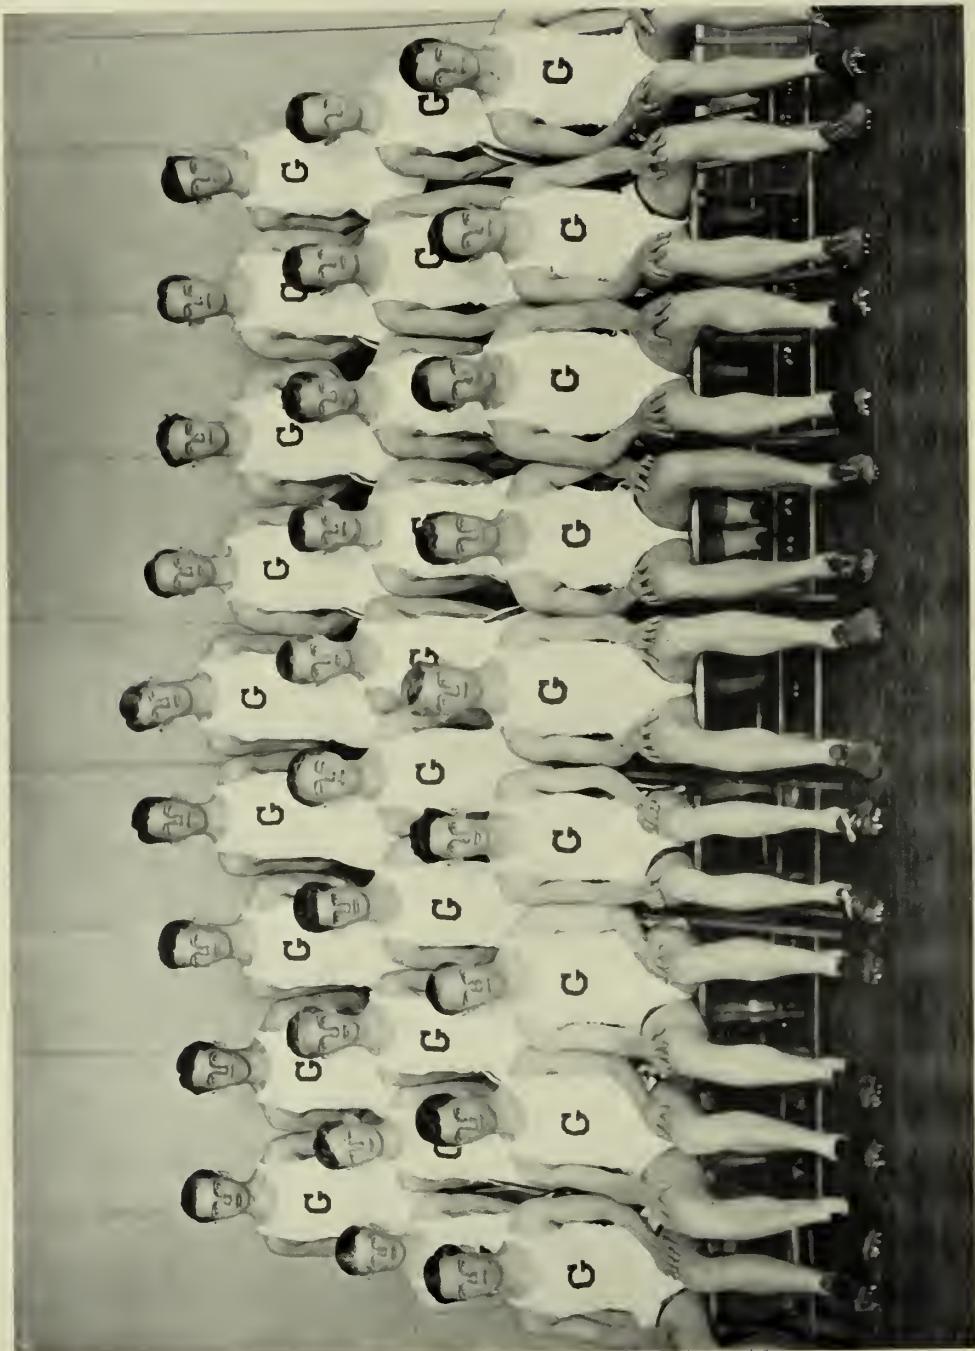

On Saturday, May 14th, the Governors lost to Deerfield by the narrow margin of one run, the final score being 3-2. This game proved that the 1932 baseball team is a successful team, because it gave Deerfield three runs in the first inning and then almost won.

The Track Season

Faced with the need of filling many vacancies made by graduation, the track coaches began early to mold together, what has proved at the going to press of the MILESTONE, a very successful group. Reiche, captain of the team this year, was an outstanding man in the high jump. The success of the team was due much to his leadership. Shaw Carter, a veteran from last year, was one of the most versatile men on the team, taking part in nearly every field event. Maxcy and Donovan, newcomers, were the most prominent men in the running events. Maxcy was so fast that the coaches found it difficult to furnish competition for him in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Donovan, a quarter-miler, could always be depended on to run a spectacular race. Orr, in the javelin, has shown great improvement since the beginning of the season, and although he has never thrown the javelin before this year, won several first places in meets. Other men who made the team such a well-balanced outfit were Segler, Healy, and Wood in the field events; Clapp, Churchill, Sanders, Buechner, and Bond in the distance runs; and Farr, Shepard, and Lawrence in the dashes.

The first meet that the Governors entered was the New Hampshire Interscholastics in which they placed fifth in the Out-of-State Preparatory Class. In the meet, Maxcy was outstanding, taking first place in the 220-yard dash, thus winning over some of the fastest boys in New England. Orr followed by winning the javelin by a throw of 151 feet, which was the best throw that he has ever made. Donovan fought a hard battle in the quarter mile and finally took a close third place. Reiche, against much opposition, tied for fourth place in the high jump.

The next meet was held on Morse athletic field with Deerfield Academy. This was the first time that the school has had an opportunity to witness its team in action. Although the Governors lost to Deerfield, 62-37, much experience was gained by this meet. Maxcy again performed the outstanding feat of the day by winning the 220-yard dash from Dunn, considered one of the fastest school boys in New England, and by tying him in the 100. Both races were very spectacular. Orr again won the javelin throw easily, while Donovan ran a fine race and won the quarter mile. Wood came through by winning the discus and placing second in the shot put. Sanders fought a hard battle in the half mile run and took second place. With these men improving daily, the student body has no doubt but that the Governor Dummer track team will be a real threat in the Amherst Interscholastics on May 30th.

The Golf Season

Although faced with a schedule heavier than that of last year, the golf team has had a very satisfactory season. The team was handicapped somewhat by having only three players from last year's squad as a nucleus, but because of the increasing interest in the game as the season progressed and the competition given by the new candidates for places in the first eight, the improvement has been rapid.

Disbro, representing Governor Dummer for the first time on the fairways, was elected captain and has played well at the number one position. Wyman shows the most potential ability of all the players in school, for he is a tireless student of the game, and although the youngest member of the squad, he is a long and accurate driver and a very effective putter. One of the steadiest members of the team on approach shots which often save him from difficult lies is a veteran from last year, Ingraham. Eldred, another member of last year's team is probably the most consistent of the players, and has shown the soundest improvement of all. Chase, the remaining veteran, benefiting by his last year's acquaintance with the course, has played a good game throughout. Among the substitutes who are furnishing serious enough competition during the week to get in some of the matches are James and Wentworth Smith, Kelley, Toppan, Hodgkinson, and Morrill.

At Andover on April 30th Disbro won his match, and he and Ingraham won another point for the Governors with the best ball. Several of the other matches were lost by very close scores, but these were the only points Andover did not get in winning by the score of 7-2. On the following Saturday the team played exceptionally well in defeating the Lawrence golfers, 6-3. In this match Kelley, playing his first match of the season on the team, made a remarkable finish to win after being eight down. Wyman won nine up, and Disbro, Eldred, and Chase won their matches fairly easily, though not by such a large margin. The team played its third match on May 14th against a well-balanced Quincy team and lost, 6-3; Disbro and Wyman won the only points in this contest.

Since the majority of the members of the 1932 team are underclassmen, some of whom will have had several years of experience with the course next year, the prospects for a really exceptional team in 1933 are very promising.

The Tennis Season

Although the tennis squad is one of the smallest athletic groups in school, it is one of the most courageous and hard working. The wire fencing around the courts and the courts themselves having been damaged during the winter, it was necessary for the squad to practice in the gymnasium in addition to helping reconstruct the courts. While doing this work, their development was seriously delayed.

After a period of unimpeded practice, the squad was divided into two groups; the first being the team proper, consisting of eight players; the other, the remainder of the squad, composed principally of younger, less experienced boys. Although the ratings were constantly being changed in the course of a ladder tournament, the first four were Barndollar, Underwood, Hosmer, and Fernandez, usually in the above order. At present, Barndollar is the ranking player, with Underwood, a very close contestant for the honors. The remaining four players of the team are Whiting, William Johnson, Smith, and Jonas. In the younger group, Covey, Dietz and Rines show great promise for the future.

The first meet of the season was against the Moses Brown School at Providence on April 23d. Having had but two days of practice prior to the match, the team fared rather badly, being defeated 5-0. Barndollar was the outstanding player for the team, doing especially good work.

The second set of matches was played on May 4th, this time against the Beacon School of Wellesley at South Byfield. This time the team showed marked improvement, and won by the score of 3-2, largely due to the fine work of Barndollar and Underwood, Barndollar winning a singles set, and both together taking a doubles.

Although constant improvement was being made, the team was defeated 9-0 on May 7th by Deerfield, which has an unusually strong team this season. Underwood was the most outstanding player for the squad in this match.

The Governors suffered another defeat on May 12th, this time from the Andover Reserves, the score being 5-0. The matches were all very stiffly contested by the various players, but Andover was clearly the stronger.

The Outing Club

The year 1932, the second in the infancy of the Outing Club, saw that organization still feeling its way along with rather unsteady steps. Because of this uncertainty, it decided to follow the precedent set last season of carrying on a simple program of daily sports. However, its destiny was determined by external circumstances, and it was forced to become a week-end or spare-time activity instead of a daily one. This necessitated the laying of plans which would attract the students to the activities of the Outing Club during their leisure moments.

At this point, the Club was most fortunate to secure Mr. Jacob as adviser. Mr. Jacob is an experienced mountaineer and woodsman, and it was only natural that the plans turned toward week-end trips to the mountains of New Hampshire and Maine, as well as toward other interesting places.

A tentative schedule of three trips was planned for the winter term. Two of these trips were to be taken to Mount Chocorua and the third to Carter Notch, in the vicinity of Mount Washington. The Chocorua trips were arranged with the intention of whipping the boys into shape for the more difficult third trip. Unfortunately, exceptionally bad weather made the first two impossible.

On Friday afternoon, February 13th, the Club set out for Carter Notch in spite of threatening weather. Travelling north in two cars, supplied through the kindness of Mr. Jacob and Lyman Belknap, they were soon rewarded by the appearance of good weather. Stopping briefly en route to dig another car out of a roadside snowdrift, the group finally reached their destination, the Pinkham Notch camp of the Appalachian Mountain Club, late that evening. The next morning an early start was made, the party driving a few miles farther north to the Glen House. There they disembarked and, on skis and snowshoes, started up the trail into Carter Notch, reaching the cabin there after an arduous uphill climb of four hours. After cleaning up the mess made by bears which had previously broken in, lunch was prepared. While the members were eating, a heavy snow squall came over a nearby peak and forced them to start their descent, although they had been planning to go on to Carter Dome. Having returned to the camp, the group split up, the skiers going out on a ski-run on the Tuckerman's Ravine trail and the others going to see Glen Ellis Falls. That night an excursion was made to Gorham through a blinding snowstorm in search of amusement. The cold was rather severe when the boys retired, most of them finding it necessary to sleep fully clothed under six or ten blankets with three more beneath them. The next day an early start for the return trip to school was anticipated but not accomplished, since it required over an hour's work to thaw both cars out.

At a meeting on April eighth, new officers were chosen for the 1932-33 term. Lyman Belknap, Hugo Poisson, and George Tryon succeed Colin Soule, Dix Robbins, and Elwood Chase as president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively. Thomas Willins was re-elected vice-president. It was further decided that additional trips would be taken during the spring term.

The Archon

In 1897, under the title of Dummer News, Governor Dummer Academy printed its first school paper. For the past nineteen years it has appeared as the Archon. Throughout that time the paper has taken many different forms, appearing sometimes as a news sheet and sometimes as a booklet. The last two years have brought a great improvement in the paper, and the outstanding difference between this year and others has been the increase in the number of students who have participated in the preparation of the paper and the extent to which they have made it their own.

This year the paper has done away, almost entirely, with a professional photographer, and has published pictures taken by members of the student body. That the quality of the pictures has not suffered, is attested by the favorable comment of our subscribers. The portrait of the Reverend Mr. Carroll Perry, taken by the staff photographer and published in our issue of February tenth, has been especially praised.

In form the paper does not differ greatly from that of last year. It appears as a sixteen page magazine, eight by ten and one-half inches in size. The cover, featuring the well-known portrait of Lieutenant Governor William Dummer which hangs in the Mansion House, was standardized last year. However, increased advertising and reduced rate on pictures, due to student photographers, has permitted the staff to publish more pictures and seven Archons yearly instead of six.

The paper has received a great many compliments from people not directly connected with the school. Our increased circulation also points out that improvements have been made.

The staff of The Archon desire to express their gratitude for the loyal support of the student body, of Mr. Dunning who has filled the post of Faculty Adviser, and of others who have contributed to the success of the paper. It is through their willing help that the improvements have been made possible.

With the 1931 graduating class left many of the best orchestra members; the incoming class, moreover, did not compensate this loss. However, under the direction of Mr. Sager and with the aid of Mrs. William B. Jacob at the piano, this small group has worked together faithfully.

The repertoire of the Orchestra is not large, since with this particular body it has been Mr. Sager's policy to do a few numbers well rather than to attempt many with possibly poor results. Nevertheless, these selections are of a high type; those by such as Mendelssohn, Liszt, and Dvorak are now being used. These few numbers are of a special type adapted to this small group, in which the work is done primarily with string and reed instruments.

The first appearance of the Orchestra was at the Masonic Temple in Newburyport, March 8th; the second, at which decided improvement was displayed, took place at the Academy, April 29th. Two more appearances are scheduled: one at the Belleville Church on May 20th, and the other on the commencement programme, at which time the Orchestra will undoubtedly show even more improvement.

The Glee Club

One example of the interest which the student body has shown in the Glee Club this year is the fact that at the first rehearsal Mr. Sager found more than half of the school reporting for competition. It was necessary for him to eliminate thirty of the candidates after the first meeting in order to reduce the Club to a number with which he could work. Although there were only eight veterans of the last year's group to form a nucleus, the first concert of the year, that of the Football Banquet, coming only a month after the opening rehearsal, produced remarkable results.

After the Christmas vacation the Club began in earnest the work of preparing for the tenth Inter-Preparatory Glee Club Contest which was held in the Town Hall at New York City on Saturday evening, February 20th. Eight other schools were present at the contest: Deerfield, Pawling, Riverdale, St. Mark's, Moses Brown, Peddie, Tome, and Horace Mann. In the major competition each club was required to sing two numbers, a prize song and a choice song. The prize song, that given by each of the clubs, was High Barbary, and Arthur Hall's arrangement of the chantey was used. For a choice song, that is, the individual selection of each of the clubs, Mr. Sager selected Goin' Home. There was also a school song contest in which the Club did not enter. The judges of the contest were Professor Peter W. Dykema of the Teachers College, Channing Lefebvre, organist of Trinity Church, New York City, and Osbourne McConathy, Supervisor of Music in the New York Public Schools. First prize was awarded to Deerfield, second to Pawling, and third to Riverdale. Although the Governor Dummer Glee Club received no prize, it was the consensus of opinion that no club had ever done better in a first competition.

Immediately following the New York trip the Club held two concerts in Newburyport. On Tuesday evening, March 8th, it gave a program in the Masonic Hall, singing several of the numbers that were used in New York. The second performance was given at the City Hall.

During the spring term a number of concerts were given. The first of these was held in the Academy gymnasium for the benefit of the Byfield Parish. After this the Club traveled to the Belleville Church in Newburyport, where it gave an interesting concert which was enthusiastically received. Following this a joint concert was arranged with the Ipswich High School Orchestra in Ipswich.

This year the Glee Club went again to Portland, Maine, to give a radio concert from Station WCHS. The members were cordially received in Portland by Mr. and Mrs. Rines at the Eastland Hotel, where the annual Musical Clubs Banquet was served.

On June 12th, Commencement Day, the final concert of the 1932 Glee Club will be given in the Lang Gymnasium. This concert, given every year during the Commencement time, affords an excellent opportunity for the parents of the students to hear the Club and to obtain a definite impression of the ability of this organization.

School Dances

On December twelfth the Fall Dance was held in the Lang Gymnasium, and was an unusually successful one. The Dance Committee was composed of: Shaw Carter, chairman, Jacob Bond, Augustine Conant, Herbert Deuel, Albert Disbro, Albert Hessian, William Mack, Richard Segler, James Smith, Louis Sumner, and William Williamson.

The gymnasium was decorated with a border of evergreens, and large cedar trees were placed at appropriate places. The dancing began at four o'clock and continued until six. Supper was served at seven followed by coffee at the Mansion House, and the dancing was resumed at eight and continued until twelve. The music was supplied by Roy Lamson's Orchestra from Cambridge. The proceeds from the dance, about eighty-five dollars, were devoted to the purchase of gold footballs for this year's team.

The Spring Dance on April thirtieth proved also to be a very exceptionally pleasant one, and much credit was due to the Committee which was composed of Louis Sumner, chairman, James Smith, William Bauer, Raymond Jones, Elwood Chase, Charles Caddoo, Forbush McGarry, Paul Rutherford, and Terry Staples.

The music was provided by Jack Develin's Orchestra of Boston which won great approval with the boys as well as the faculty. The decorations consisted of hundreds of naval signal flags loaned by Mr. Henry Little of Newburyport and the Corinthian Yacht Club of Marblehead.

Most of the guests arrived during the afternoon in time to see the baseball game, after which was supper at six-thirty and dancing commenced at eight. The proceeds of the dance were voted to go to the MILESTONE.

Both dances were very enjoyable from every view point, and acted as a pleasing diversion from the academic routine.

Commencement of 1931

In order to make the activities that are depicted in the yearbook cover an entire year, the MILESTONE Board is this year inserting a few paragraphs in connection with the commencement exercises of 1931.

The Baccalaureate Service held at Adelynrood Chapel on Sunday, June seventh, marked the beginning of the one hundred and sixty-eighth commencement. The Reverend Emery Bradford of Boxford delivered the address upon this occasion.

The annual Ambrose Prize Speaking contest was held in the Lang Gymnasium on the afternoon of Thursday, June eleventh. There were eight contestants in the finals, and of these the winners were John Young, William Buechner, and Carl Buechner. In the evening of the same day the Senior Class accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Eames and several other members of the faculty went to Plum Island for a picnic. Upon their return to the School later in the evening the final sing of the school year was held on Sunset Hill. According to custom this sing was dedicated to the Senior Class, and at the conclusion the Senior Song was sung, and the graduating class filed down from the hill past the traditional milestone and into the Mansion House for an informal reception.

The most important ceremony of the week was that of the graduation exercises on Friday morning, June twelfth. Dean Chester N. Greenough of Harvard College, Master of Dunster House, was the speaker. After Dean Greenough's interesting address, Mr. Eames awarded the various prizes, several of which were presented for the first time at this commencement. At the conclusion Mr. James Duncan Phillips of the Board of Trustees gave to each Senior his diploma. At noon the Musical Clubs held a joint concert in the Lang Gymnasium. Pinkerton Academy was defeated in the afternoon in the commencement game by the score of 12-2. Immediately following the baseball game the Board of Trustees held its annual June meeting in the Noyes Library.

The concluding event was the Alumni Dinner at which Mr. Edward E. Whiting of Boston served as toastmaster. Following Mr. Whiting's interesting and informal remarks, addresses were delivered by Dean Paul Nixon of Bowdoin College, Hon. Frank E. Allen, former governor of Massachusetts, and Dr. Charles Ingham, former headmaster of the Academy. There were an extraordinarily large number of alumni present in addition to many friends of the School.

A NEW KIND OF ENCYCLOPEDIA...

A Book of Living Facts for Home for Library for School for Business

DOUBLEDAY'S has been called a "New Kind of Encyclopedia" because it approaches the world's knowledge in a new way. Its purpose is to make knowledge NEWS—as fascinating as the news presented in your daily paper. The best description of its style might be Anatole France's remark, "Only by amusing oneself can one learn. In order that knowledge be properly digested, it must be swallowed with good appetite."

To make this new work complete as well as fascinating, great specialists were called upon—authorities such as Elihu Root, Herbert Hoover, Helen Keller, Henry Ford, Oliver Lodge, J. Arthur Thompson, John Galsworthy and many others.

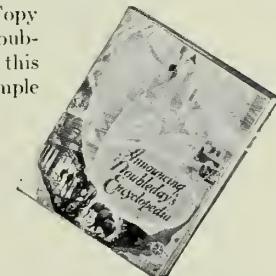

To make each page attractive and each fact clear, the picture collections of the entire world were combed for their photographic treasures.

DOUBLEDAY'S ENCYCLOPEDIA in 10 strikingly illustrated volumes, is the most convenient and useful work of its kind in existence today. You need but to look within its covers to appreciate the simplicity, conciseness and accuracy of its articles, the informative value and interest of its illustrations, and to acquaint yourself with the wide range of its authorities, who have been chosen for their knowledge and their ability to express themselves clearly and to the point.

Ten attractive and durably bound volumes containing 10,000 illustrations, most of them half-tones made from actual photographs, and full-color plates, 28,000 separate articles, 5,700,000 words, 277 maps. The five-year achievement of Doubleday, Doran & Company, Inc.

To enable you to get the full import of this entirely new viewpoint in the preparation of an encyclopedia, the publishers would like to send you (of course, without cost or obligation) an interesting booklet of sample pages.

May We Send You a Copy of This Booklet? The publishers will send you this large booklet of sample pages, many of them in full color. Your name and address on the coupon will bring this booklet and all the facts by return mail.

THE EPIC DRAMA OF LIFE ITSELF

OF all the thrilling non-fiction narratives ever written, few, if any, equal this distinguished, informative, pulsating story of all living things. For centuries the world's most brilliant scientists, historians and philosophers have struggled for more and more knowledge.

And now, their great discoveries on the enchanted story of Life are vividly unfolded for you—as only the fire and scintillance of Wells can unfold them—in unforgettable chapters, solving, in a way all will enjoy and understand, the riddles of this whole romantic story that has puzzled most of the world's people.

From life in its lowest form, you are led breathlessly on through the ages. By the light of Science, you see in one colorful parade, LIFE—in the water, on land, in the air.

You are brought the entire record of the great march of events that produced insects, fish, reptiles, flowers, fowl, mountains, forests, beasts, mammals, the races of mankind—WE AS WE ARE!

FOUR EPOCH-MAKING VOLUMES
with over 400 Fascinating Pictures

Too large in scope—too thorough in detail to fit the ordinary mould of a single book, THE SCIENCE OF LIFE is published in four beautiful full library size volumes, 6½" by 9½". They are durably bound in black vellum cloth, suitably stamped.

WORDS—PICTURES—CHARTS

There are 1548 pages in all, profusely illustrated with 337 drawings, charts and diagrams, 64 photographic reproductions in black and white from old and new original sources, and four handsome frontispieces in FULL color amplify the more than 600,000 words of text in this stupendous set.

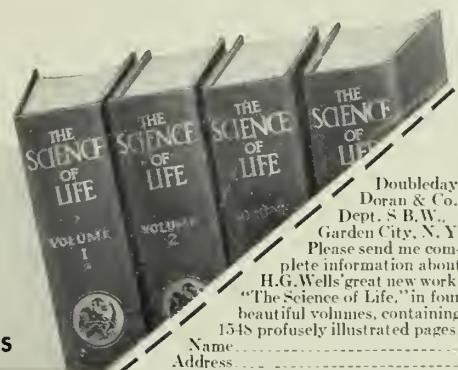

The paper and type have been selected to eliminate eye-strain and provide a beautiful type page. The price of this set is $12.00.

Your Instructors Are Right . . .

Training is the fundamental factor in the success of any individual, group or concern.
The MILESTONE has been printed by an organization especially trained in the production of fine publications for discriminating schools and colleges.
The engravings for this book were furnished by the printer.
